

Cleveland City Council's public comment period allows for 10 pre-registered people to speak at council's regular meetings at 7 p.m. on Mondays. Public commenters get up to three minutes to speak.

A GUIDE TO PUBLIC COMMENT AT CLEVELAND CITY COUNCIL

Want to participate?
Here's what you need to know:

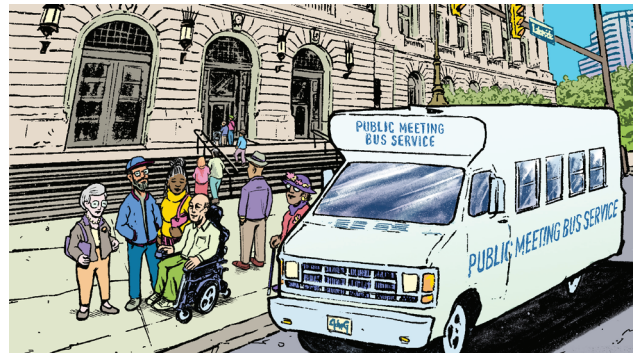

COUNCIL'S RULES FOR PUBLIC COMMENT

- ▶ Three minutes for each comment.
- ▶ Speakers can only address the topic they included on the registration form.
- ▶ Speakers can't address individual council members, only the council as a whole.
- ▶ Promoting products, services, or political campaigns is not allowed.
- ▶ Signs and banners are not permitted in council chambers.

HOW TO SIGN UP

Public commenters can register online at the Cleveland City Council website, by email or by using a paper form starting on Wednesday at noon and ending on Monday at 2 p.m.

The first 10 people properly registered will get a 3-minute slot to speak. Public commenters who need special physical or language accommodations should request assistance three business days before the meeting.

WHAT TO KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

You can park for free after 5 p.m. on Mondays on the top deck in the Willard Garage connected to City Hall on Lakeside Avenue.

To find a Greater Cleveland RTA Bus Route, use GCRTA's "Plan a Trip." There are also two bike racks located in front of City Hall.

To get into City Hall, you will need a driver's license or other current identification card. At the security desk, tell the officer you are going to City Council chambers, which are located on the second floor.
